Agha, don't worry. Got my room and I'm happy with it. Think about it – you get there a night after I do, anyway, and I'd have to change hotels. I'll bring a change of clothes on Friday, so that if the commute proves a pain and we find crashing with you isn't that hard, then I will just stay one night. I don't intend to attend on Sunday, and would rather have a late morning in Amman, meet a couple of friends for lunch, perhaps, and head to the airport.

I got a good deal on the Marriott ($163/night with breakfast). I am pretty sure WEF has shuttles from Amman Hotels to the conference too.

Thanks again. I really do appreciate you being so kind.

Dude – we can just put some sheets on the floor as well if you want. It is supposed to be a deluxe room, so it cant be too small...

Agha, it was a mess. So many calls, etc. and it came to the point where I realized I'm spending more time figuring this out than it would take to commute two days! I really appreciate the offer though.

(Actually, they told us that they have room and Karim and I booked, then they cancelled. Got very annoying... We can chill by the pool together though. I'll bring my trunks!)

Thanks!

After lots of craziness, I gave up with getting a hotel at the Dead Sea and just booked myself at the Marriott in Amman. I won't be here much, but here's the details just in case. I will try to check email, but I'm not sure.

Trita, if you don't mind, I might bring a change of clothes and leave at your hotel to go from biz casual to dinner ...
